

Peace Building/Social Contracting

PROF GANDI Foundation started a project earlier in 2020 called Social contract peacebuilding. PROF GANDI Foundation would like to continue that peace project to promote

- I. Peacebuilding, through culture preservation, education, and scientific research.
- II. Empowering local youth through improvements of community leadership and providing linkages between youth and skills-building opportunities to counter CVE
- III. Communicate effectively to challenge extremist messages and support alternative narratives such as entrepreneurship.
- IV. Reduce youth vulnerability to violent extremist influences using conflict-sensitive approaches to prevent and transform conflicts.
- V. Advocate for the pro-active right-minded person in societal leadership affairs.
- VI. Be a voice that advocates for transparency and accountability at all governments and in all segments of society.
- VII. Promote fair and equitable access to developments and policy-making processes.
- VIII. Advocate for a participatory process that promotes good governance and community cohesion to reduce the trigger of violence amongst society and its youth over poor governance

The PROF GANDI Foundation will continue the Social contracting road map to work the Community Peacebuilding activities. Strategies encompass many practices that bring together youth, adults, governments, organizations, and schools to help cultivate peace and healing in local communities. Project have comprehensive plan activities and strategies in communities working to address such challenges.

The program focuses on Mediation and voluntary problem-solving process to resolve conflict in which a third party helps two or more participants better understand each other's issues, interests, and needs and empowers parties to bridge their differences and find solutions that meet everyone's needs
